SECOND MONTHLY DINNER.

GATHERING OF REAL ESTATE MEN AT THE COATES HOUSE.

Ethelbert F. Allen Tells of His Observations During His Recent Trip Through New England-Other Speeches Made in Response to Toasts.

Over thirty members attended the second monthly dinner of the Real Estate and Stock exchange at the Coates House last This was deemed such a good showing, and one so indicative of a growing in-terest in occasions of this kind, that it was voted another dinner be held in Sentember. P. H. Madden, C. M. Northup and Herbert Parker were appointed the committee of The dinner began at 6 o'clock. Vice President Van F. Boor occupied the position of toastmaster, in the absence of President C. D. Parker, who is still ill at his home. Toasimaster Boor announced that he is regaining his health rapidly and wished to be remembered at the dinner. Ethelbert F Allen, who was a member of the delegations which recently visited the manufacturing centers of New England, was the first speaker. He responded to the toast, "What I Know About New En-Stand," He said that the manner in which the New England cities are kept up and thrive was a constant source of wonder to the excursionists. He cited Lawrence, Mass., a city the age of Kaneas City, as an instance of a well kept, intensely public spirited community, with beautiful parks and public buildings. The manufactories of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Consection were described in an interesting way, and the disposition of New England towards the West and its business enterprises. Said Mr. Allen: 'I came in contact with a great many men, some of whom have investments in Kansas City, and I took pains to tell them of the resources of Missouri and the steady progress we are making here, commercially. Hardly any knew of Missouri, but almost all knew a great deal about Kansas.'

Mr. Allen touched upon the realty business, as conflucted in that part of the United States, and then branched off to speak of the saviness banks. In this latter connection he made note of the fact that the people of New England, employers and employes alike, are the most economical people in the country. 'Wenderful money savers,' he called them, a statement which he proved by figures given by bank officials at Hartford and Manchester.

"Rent, Collections and Repairs,' was the loast responded to by R. E. Shryock, A uniformity in commissions and a concerted movement for self-protection against the numerous annoying demands made by tenants, were the subjects he laid the greatest stress upon.

J. D. Goldsby spoke on "Reciprocity With Fire Insurance Agents." His main point was that imasmuch as the real estate and insurance business lie along similar lines, fire insurance agents should divide commissions with real estate brokers, and vice versa. W. H. Paret responded to the subject, "Commissions and For Sale Boards." He cautioned his hearers against placing too many sale boards in one locality and thus confuse investors. The diners adjourned to participate in the reception given the New England delegation.

STILL LOCKED UP.

John F. Jackson's Attempt to Escape From

the County Jail Frustrated. Deputy Marshals W. G. Keshlear and J. T. Stewart frustrated a very neat plan to escape from the county jall yesterday on the part of John F. Jackson, who was bound over to the grand jury on April 6 last by Justice Spitz for stealing bleycles. Jackson had given a note to Oscar Hughes, a trusty, who is unable to read, and told him to go to a neighboring drug store with it. He claimed the note called for some medicine. When Hughes returned he was intercepted in the jail office by Mr. Keshlear, who demanded to be shown the bottle, Hughes passed it over, and it was seen to be labeled prussic acid. Mr. Keshlear, accompanied by Mr. Stewart, at once visited Jackson's cell, which is located on the tirst floor, and discovered a place in the center of the cell floor partially sawed out. It was eighteen by twenty-four inches square, and with the aid of the prusic acid could have easily been removed within an hour. The deputies also found several parts of broken saws and a small fron rod. Jackson was immediately placed in the dungson, where he is securely chained to the iron bedisticad. Deputy Marshals W. G. Yesterday forenoon an inquest was held at the coroner's office in the county court house over Thomas W. He fought him off with the tin beer bucket, which he held in his hand. was discovered in the store room of the Grand Central depot, at Second and Wyandotte streets. The prompt arrival of the fire department prevented a serious fire. The fire was extinguished in a little less than an hour. The interior of the attic of the depot was badly scorched. The fire was fed by a quantity of stationery stored in the attic store room. It burned through the frame partitions of the store room and also burned the rafters and inside woodwork. The fire is supposed to have been caused by mice nibbling at several packages of matches that were kept in the store room.

The loss done the building by fire is estimated at $500, while the damage done to the stock by the streams of water will exceed $5,000. The fire was first discovered by J. B. Trimble, chief clerk in the office of Superintenient James H. Pickering, of the Kansas City & Independence Air line. The office is located on the second floor. Mr. Trimble sniffed the smoke and hastened up into the attic, which is divided into store rooms. There he was airmost blinded by the smoke bursting forth through the door he had opened to peer into the attic. The alarm was turned in by William Williams, a porter.

The insurance parcol arrived soon after the fire companies and before the streams started to play on the fire in the attic, the desks, books and other portable property were carried into the bagsage room, at the western cond of the dopot. The refreshment stand of J. W. Ingold, on the first floor, was almost totally ruined by the flood of water. His stock of truits was swept from his stand and scattered brondicated of the stand and scattered brondicated.

Although the course is andor the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., it is open to the general public. Season deckets for the course will be on sale as soon as they can be printed.
